He said that one of the objections to the bill urged by some of his own party, was ask at the hands of the Democracy, she should that it placed Franklin county and the Frankfort show a reciprocity of good feeling, and this clique, under the heel of Owen county. He called Frankfort GOD ALMIGHTY'S SINK HOLE—a place sunk so deep in the ground that the sun never shown upon it—where you had to go under ground to get to it, and climb a hill or twenty-three years. Here is a test by which swim a river to get out of it. Let it be put under the heel of Owen—clique and all—and let owen grind the life out of it—he would not better than mere partisan politics and demamourn. If some young lawyer were disappointed in regard to the office of Commonwealth's goguery. Attorney—or some older one in regard to the judgship—he did not care. He should not oppose the bill on that account. He was not afraid to pass the bill—his party could and would take the responsibility-notwithstanding gentlemen had said that the people would indignantly repudiate the clique to whom the American party were indebted for their success—it was they who had told the party that Mr. Loving would not do as the the party that Mr. Loving would not do as the candidate for Governor—but that they must run Mr. Morehead or else be defeated. The clique the service which we have endeavored to was composed of astute and industrious men—men who never tired—who had devoted night and day render? If they do, they will go to the polls to the success of the party—who had been abused and vote the Democratic ticket; they will rally from one end of the State to the other, but who their friends, and induce them to do the same had stood it all for the sake of success; and was it for men who owed their success to this very clique thing; they will be active from this time to get up here and abuse them? He warned them forward, and leave no effort unmade in behalf

"Hark from the tombs a doleful sound,
Mine cars attend the cry.
Ye living men come view the ground,
Where you must shortly lie,"
A day of reckoning would come, and they must beware of the consequences.

This assault upon Frankfort surpasses in malignity, virulence, and coarseness anything of the kind that ever appeared in the Louisville Democrat or any other print. If the Opposition paper published one word in vindication of the city or the character of its citizens assailed by Mr. Hanson we did not see the article. The task was left to the "Yeoman," by whose editor the slander upon the city was properly resented. When Mr. Hanson became a candidate the year after he was warmly supported and defended by not only the Opposition paper here but by the leaders of the Opposition party. Let it be remembered that the unwarranted attack upon our town was made here in the Capitol by the representa- day. It is wrong to erase a single name tive of an adjoining county; that it was not a therefrom, and no good Democrat should think newspaper article published in a rival town, of doing so.

The Convention, however, established the Capital at Frankfort by constitutional guaranties and safeguards-requiring no less than a two-thirds vote to remove it; and the man who can deliberately charge the Democratic party with hostility to this town must be either very ignorant or too prejudiced to do his opponents the simplest justice. One of our State candidates, Col. Garrard, was a member of the Convention, and voted in favor of keeping the Capital here, while most of the other candidates upon our ticket, when members of the Legislature, have given votes in favor of Frankfort.

Other facts that throw a strong light upon Prest. Board Internal Improvement, this subject should not be omitted. The holding of State Conventions by either of the political parties in this place has been a source of great profit and advantage to our town. The Democracy for years past have held all their conventions here, while the Opposition and Know-Nothing parties, although in most instances having their Executive Committee here, have held their conventions in Louisville. Capt. W. E. Simms.

Nominated without solicitation on his part, selected by the unbiased delegates of the Democracy of the District assembled in convention, our gallant standard-bearer has thus far done his duty. He has proven himself worthy the high trust reposed in him, worthy the cordial, enthusiastic support of the whole party. He has traversed the District again and again, met his opponent in every precinct, ably and bolcly vindi cated the principles of his party on the stump, fearlessly refuted the vile slanders of the Opposition, and, in a word, done all man could do for the success of those who have put him forward. Brave, chivalric, und true, he has not quailed before personal responsibility, nor shrunk from intellectual contests. Ready to meet his foes upon Livingston and Marshall-T. L. Goheen and any field of action, he has proven himself a ma equal to every emergency—a leader worthy the support of the Democracy. Honest and sincere in his political convictions, he has advocated the principles of the Democratic party, alienated the real issues of the canvass, and presented the vital questions to the people with an eloquence and ability which has not failed to bring to his support every intelligent, impartial thinking man. Yet even he will fall before the superhuman efforts of him. Democrats, will you not do it! Work for Simms as he worked for you two years ago; work for him as he now works for your cause, and no apprehension need be felt for the result. You never struggled in a better cause, nor labored for a truer, more gallant and faithful representative of your party. He did not seek the position he occupies The voice of the District called him to the leadership, and nobly has he responded. The Democracy owe it to him, owe it to their cause, owe it to their country, to rally to him with that determination and zeal which will surely secure his triumphant election. His success is certain if his friends do their duty. No time is now to be spared. Every man should be in the field. The Opposition are working with the energy of despair. No tricks are too low, no resorts disgraceful, no influences too corrupt for their employment. But they struggle for a sinking cause, and against the tide of popular sentiment. Then let their doom be sealed on Monday next, and let the Ashland District proclaim to the country that its people are yet alive to the call of patriotism and duty .- Statesman

[From the Louisville Democrat.]

If Before our next weekly reaches the country, the vote of Kentucky will be cast. Our readers know their duty, and will perform it. It is usual to pronounce all general elections important; but the coming one can hardly be overestant; but the coming of th last general election before the national contest for the next Administration. The whole country knows that there are but two parties to that cor test. Their forces are already marshaled, and their ranks can't be broken by any third party. The present Opposition in Kentucky exists nowhere outside of the slave States, and has no existence in several of them. It will live only till after the present election in this State. Why should it be supported? What is to be gained by a vote for it? Its success will not change the organized, con pact legions of the Black Republicans of the North; which has but one object, the abolition at slavery. The Organization in Kennerger and the support of the state of the support of the supp the abolition of slavery. The Opposition in Ken tucky now affect great zeal for Southern rights; but we don't know how long that zeal will last. They were a few years ago far more zealous against the Pope and foreigners; but that zeal disappeared upon the first assault. If this Southern hobby don't win, what will become of it? We predict that it will be discarded This Opposition make vague assertions about strength in the free States, when, in fact, they have no friends there Their conservative men there are all men in buckram. This Opposition is entirely sectional; we may add, local; for it hardly extends out of a few of the middle slave States They tell you the Democracy are not to be trusted on this slavery question; and that the State must commit her interests into their hands. The people of Kentucky know their friends too well. Who are the opponents of the Black Republicans in the North? Who have met the anti-slavery legions everywhere? Who now daily defend the South and denounce the great sectional movement to fill Congress with Abolitionists?

These questions the tyro in politics can answer.

The Dem cracy of the North have stood alone in an uncompromising opposition to these Abolitionists. They stand now their only opponents. There is not the remotest probability that any party North, outside of the Democratic and Re publican parties, will be formed to take part in the Presidential election. In this condition of things, where is the utility or sense in sustaining this Opposition in Kentucky? When two con tending armies are in the field, what can be thought of mere guerillas, who attack in detail one of the parties? Do they accomplish any object except to help the other. A victory of the Opposition in this State can only aid the Blade. pposition in this State can only aid the Black Republican party of the free States; the fruits of the victory are theirs. This consideration is certainly sufficient to insure the support of the Democratic ticket in this State.

We appeal to the calm, sober reflection of the people of Kentucky. It is a grave matter not to be settled by a clamor or an excitement. It is not the time now to go after new parties and factions, that change colors annually, and claim only the slender and equivocal merit of Opposition. The Democratic party has a long record, and is bound by its antecedents. That party has made this Union what it is; and will support it.
It has always been assailed by sectional factions; but it has swept them away one after another last time Capt. Simms will meet his constit- South, and too Southern for extremists North. uents of Franklin before the election, and we It is assailed in turn by sectional parties, to suit

The Democrats will do justice, as they always have done, to all sections of the Union; and allow none to be oppressed. The best guaranty is in the history of the past. Any party can make loud professions for the sake of votes; but what have they done? The significant fact stands out in all the histories of past struggles, that whenever Southern Whigs and Democrats, needed help, they had to look to Northern Demneeded help, they had to look to Former Denocrats. No aid did they ever get from any other party. It is true now as it always has been. The only party in the free States, without prejudice against the South, are the Democracy. To dice against the South, are the Democracy. them the South can look for a shield agains: oppression. It is, therefore, the duty of every Kentuckian to support the Democratic ticket. Let none falter or fail in the good work. The Democracy everywhere expects Kentucky to do her duty. The Opposition are striving to get up an excitement—a noise and confusion. It is all out of place. The calm, deliberate judgment of the people is wanted; and let it be given.

IJohn Rodman, Esq., of Franklin, very rashly undertook to meet Capt. Simms in discussion at Bridgeport one day last week, but we presume from the treatment he received it will be long ere he is so bold again. We understand that he up that he did not dare to go through the same Simms invited him. Their cause needs the interposition of its every advocate, but we do not envy the rash factionist who enters the arena

The explanation seemed satisfactory enough. and as the Austrians were believed to be at least eight or ten miles away, and the heights of Solferino and Carriana in plain sight, were crowded with French troops, no special reason was apparent for any alarm. I started again across the field, but my driver insisted upon instantly returning to Montechiaro, as he was perfectly convinced that the Austrians were at hand.

Finding that I could not control him in the least, and that my only choice was to go with him, or be left on foot under a burning sun, some six miles from Castiglione, I made the best of a bad case, and went back as far as that place and discharged him. I had engaged him only for the ride to Solferino, as our regular vehicle had been taken by Malakoff, to go to Brescia, to post our letters of the moreous to the together than the movable for the moreous to the together.

It was too hot to walk, so we sat down upon the piazza of a cafe on the principal street to lay some plan as to our future movements. A Piedmontese captain sat on the chair near us, pouring cold water on his wounded leg, and comfortably smoking a cigar. Wounded soldiers were sitting on the sidewalks, Zouaves with their arms in slings or limping with canes, were lounging about. The shops were open, officers were riding along, walking their horses in the hot sun, and the traffickers and other townspeople were about the traffickers and other townspeople were about to be to drink, we made the town in search of another tenund the town in search of the town in seach of the town in search of the town in search of the town in se

A GENERAL RUSH.

Having had very little rest the night before, and being greatly oppressed by the heat, I soon fell asleep, as did my friend Forsyth, of Troy, who sat beside me. We were speedily aroused by an evident and unusual commotion, and looking up, we saw men running down street with uncommon agility; their numbers and speed increased—Zowyee and other soldiers were running as ed-Zouaves and other soldiers were running as pleasant little town on the shores of Lake Garda. Their wounded were still arriving, and I could asked three or four soldiers in succession what was the matter; each gave the same reply, "Je no sais pas," but never stopped running in the least. Presently one shouted as loudly as his spent breath would permit, "They are killing the wounded!" I asked who? He replied, "Les Australies". This would be superior accommodations provided for them. They were brought in ambulances, but somewhat like an omnibus with springs, cushions, and pillows.

Not one vehicle of the kind have I seen in connection with the French army. Their wound-

We heard afterwards that it produced the most wounded on the road to Brescia. They were tumbled headlong from the carts into the side, and many of them were run over by the artillery-wagons, as they were utterly concealed from sight by the dense cloud of dust which hung over the road. Of its results at Brescia, our regular correspondent, who was on the spot, will give a detailed account. I have since tried hard to find out how it originated, but with only indifferent success. At first we were told that a squadron of Piedmontese cavalry, who were promenading the camp of Gen. Canrobert, which we visited the next day, upon the furthest extreme of the field of battle, told us that it came from five Austrian soldiers, who had concealed themselves in the bushes after the fight, and now came in in full force, and would soon be in possession of Castiglione.

This is a practical illustration of the sort of friendship the leaders of the Democracy have for our naturalized fellow citizens, with all their pretended love for them! - Whig.

The last Whig, in the article from which we take the above, speaks of "ou naturalized fel-low-citizens," a number of times. In 1855, the editor of the Whig and every candidate on the Opposition State ticket with only one exception, solemnly swore, that they were "willing to use" their "influence and vote for native born Ameri can citizens for all offices of honor, trust, or profit in the gift of the people, to the exclusion of ALL FOREIGNERS and aliens, and Roman Catholics in particular, and without regard to party predilections." The Whig had no "naturalized fellow-citizens" then. They were "foreigners and aliens," and as such the candidates now supported for office by the Whig swore to exclude the control of the can citizens for all offices of honor, trust, or profit them from all offices of honor or trust that all. These same gentlemen, low Opposition candidates for office, are now begging the votes of "naturalized fellow-citizens," and the editor of the Whig, their organ then and now, took this oath, binding themselves to obey it and adhere to it, under "penalty of excommunication from the order, the forfeiture of all intercourse with its members, and being denounced in all the societies of the same, as a wilful Traitor to Halves, Quarters, and Eighths in Proportion. This is from the record. These obligations were taken by ever member of the Know Nothing party. They are not discharged from them yet. Almost every one of the Opposition candidates in Kentucky belonged to this order and took these oaths. They are sworn not to vote for any but native born American citizens for offi and to remove all foreign born "American citizens" from office when they have this power.

We commend these facts to our naturalized fellow-citizens throughout Kentucky. We ask them to reflect upon this matter. No one of them can vote for any one who took these pro- 25,000 gracing himself .- Maysville Express.

Rally! Rally!!

It is the duty of every man to be at the polls on the day of as an important an election as the one now approaching, and every Democrat should stand firm and vote the ticket without reserve, for much depends upon the result of the present elec tion in Kentucky. Therefore every Union-loving man should consider well for whom he casts his suffrage, for if the National Democracy is defeated in this contest, and there should be a coalition of the Southern Opposition and the Republicans of the North, which there is a strong probability, then comes in a sectionalizing of this nation, and encroachments will be made upon the South which she will in no wise put up with; but if every man of the South will study their interests, then cast their votes for the men of that party who has always been against agitating sectional questions, but have been for Union and harmonious effort of both North and South in acting upon the con-servative principle of true justice to all sections, parties, then will this glorious republic remain firm upon the Constitution, the paladium of our liberties, and all will be safe.

throughout the State can now be fited up with these elegant and convenient chandeliers, and other beautiful gas fixtures, which add so much to the appearance of such places and to the comfort of the home circle, and which heretofore could be used only in those favored districts embraced within the coalgas limits of large cities.

The limited space of an advertisement precludes the insertion here of the numerous testimonials of approval we have received from all quarters. Suffice it to say, scientific men and others who have examined and thoroughly tested the merits of the Vesper Gas Light, pronounce it the best and cheapest artificial light now known.

Garage of tevery seeming form, from those of a recent inflammatory (acute) character, to old chronic cases of ten, twenty, and even thirty years' standing.

This disease is becoming more prevalent every year, and is seldom cured, or even alleviated, by the usual course of treatment. In its active form it often proves fatal, or if not soon arrested, becomes chronic—stiffens the joints, contracts the ligaments, muscles, and tendone, and thus renders the sufferer a cripple for life, or, if ever afterwards cured, even by the use of this remedy, requires longer treatment and greater expense.

This is a vegetable internal remedy which cured the proprietor of it after long suffering, and all the usual remedies known had failed, and its success, in curing rheumatism, is attested by thousands, among whom are eminent physicians, ministers of various denominations, prominent journalists, and individuals of high standing throughout our country, such as should inspire confidence in every rational mind This evidence can be had on call at the office: or those at a distance, by addressing the proprietor, will receive, by mail, a circular of evidence. The remedy can be had at $5 per bottle, or five bottles for $20. Persons ordering at a distance can remit at the proprietor's risk by registering letter, and the medicine will be forwarded by express, or as directed, to any place in the United States or Europe.
